OFFICIAL SOUVENIR FOOTBALL PROGRAM — PRICE: FIFTY CENTS PER COPY

Vol. XVIII OCTOBER 3, 1953 No. 2

Welcome, Rice!
 For the first time, The Rice Institute plays a football game with a member of the Ivy Group and for the first time, also, Cornell meets a member of the Southwest Conference. Next year the teams play in Houston.

Though one of the nation's youngest institutions, starting instruction in 1912, Rice has always been known for its fine academic standards.

And its football team has invariably been among the leaders in a conference that has been strong year after year.

This fall the Owls, coached by one of the game's most successful and respected men in Jess Neely, are considered likely to replace Texas as champions of the Southwest. They may well finish among the very top teams in the land.

The entire first team is comprised of accomplished veterans. Nine are seniors. Most of the reserves have had varsity experience.

Tri-Captains Richard Chapman at left tackle, John Hudson at left guard and Leo Rucka at center lead a powerful line. The T-formation offense is engineered by LeRoy Fenstemaker, a big senior (6-2, 195) whose ability as a field general and passer is well established. Such swift, adept runners as fullback Kosse Johnson and halfbacks Dicky Moegle, Horton Nestrta (the nation's leader in punt returns a year ago), Carl Johnson, Morris Stone, Mac Taylor and Bill Gaskamp make the attack explosive from any point on the field.

Two weeks ago Rice opened its schedule with a 20 to 16 victory over the University of Florida. Last week the Owls had an open date; Florida and mighty Georgia Tech played to a scoreless tie. . .

A special welcome, also, to the 35 Central New York high school bands which are here for Cornell's first "Band Day." They are from Afton, Charlotte Valley, De Ruyter, Dryden, Dundee, Elba, Elbridge, Endicott, Fabius, Groton, Hamilton, Harpursville, Hartwick, Interlaken, Ithaca, Johnson City, Lansing, Leonardsville, Livonia, Madison, McGraw, Moravia, Old Forge, Oneida, Ovid, Owego, Roxbury, Seneca Falls (Mynderse Academy), South Kortright, Spencer, Trumansburg, Van Etten, Watkins Glen, Waverly and Worcester.

Last Saturday's victory over Colgate brought richly deserved plaudits from all sides to the Big Red players, their coaches and trainers.

Howevrermuch some individuals stood out, this was above all a real "team victory".

It was the type of spirit and play throughout, an aggressive team working together as a unit, combined with the poise shown by every player, that can make a big difference between victory and defeat.

Football Trips

PRESIDENT WHITE VETOED in no uncertain terms the first proposed football game between Michigan and Cornell. It had been arranged to play it at Cleveland, Ohio, but President White said "no". Cleveland was just too far away and a journey there would involve too great a loss of classroom time.

It wasn't until comparatively recent years that Faculty rulings permitted Cornell more than two out-of-town games with one of them played at Philadelphia on Thanksgiving Day. We recall what it meant to the schedule makers, and what glad shouts went up, when a third was allowed on the ground that the Pennsylvania contest, being played in a vacation period, required no leaves of absence and wasn't therefore really an out-of-town game.

The early games of the Dartmouth-Cornell series were played at the Polo Grounds in New York not in hopes of a larger gate, as was suggested by the cynical and suspicious, but primarily because of the mutual inaccessibility of Hanover and Ithaca. It was feared, and not without grounds, that it would take a week after the contest to recover student jalopies and puddle jumpers from the mountains—White, Green and Adirondack—and get things going again on something like a normal basis on the Campus of the visiting college.

And now look! Here's Rice Institute dropping in casually for a Saturday afternoon call with every assurance of being back home in time for 8 o'clock classes on Monday. And next year Cornell will return the visit with equal nonchalance. The local management won't even have to look up in the book to see where Rice Institute is. Under modern conditions it need do no more than charter a couple of bombers and leave it to their competent navigators to pick up the squad and its equipment and set down the precious cargo at the right place before supper; get them back to Ithaca in time for Sunday dinner. These war-trained flyers can be counted on to skip S.M.U. and Texas Christian with certainty and hit Houston right on the nose in a heavy fog. There are still quite a number of unsolved puzzles connected with intercollegiate football, but team transportation is not one of them.

In the old days trips were limited in number but not in complications, expense and resulting nervous breakdown among the managers. For many years the Cornell football team approached Franklin Field furtively and by way of Atlantic City. The sea air and the resort hotels were supposed to put the finishing touches on the mental condition of the players. When for a game with Dartmouth the Cornell squad was transported from Herald Square to the Polo Grounds in a reserved car on the 6th Avenue Elevated—in twenty minutes at a nickel a head—some of the older New York alumni were deeply offended. They pointed out that when Yale and Princeton staged their annual contests in New York only a little while before they had always driven from the old Fifth Avenue Hotel up the Avenue to the Polo Grounds in tally-hoes behind six horses and with good musicians sounding off constantly on coaching horns; compared with that a quick, quiet, easy and cheap trip on the 6th Avenue Elevated had no class at all.

IT BECAME TRADITION to arrange all football trips the hard way and sometimes with fantastic incidents. Back in the 20's when the Princeton series was resumed your reporter received in May preceding the contest, a four page letter from the Princeton undergraduate manager. It had been arranged, he said, to take the Princeton squad direct to Watkins Glen over the Pennsylvania Railroad. They'd drive to Ithaca by bus on Friday afternoon for light practice and repeat the journey before the game on Saturday. Would we be kind enough to arrange a police motorcycle escort for them on both days? Never mind about after the game. Princeton would use the Lehigh Valley out of Ithaca for the return journey.

There were thirty-two other requests for cooperation, all possible,

THE RICE INSTITUTE at Houston, Texas, frequently has been referred to as the "Ivy League school of the Southwest." Today, for the first time the Rice football team plays a team from the tradition-steeped league.

An institution with a small, but select student body, Rice offers an interesting contrast in the Lone Star State that is famed for doing everything in a "big" way.

However, the Houston school is not without a few "bigs" to be able to join in on some "Texas brags." More about that later.

Cornellians and New Yorkers perhaps will be interested that Rice Institute is patterned closely to Ivy League associate, Princeton University.

Here is the way it came about:

In the 1890's a wealthy Houston philanthropist, William Marsh Rice (a native New Yorker, by the way) expressed a desire to provide a school of higher learning for the growing Texas city near the Gulf Coast. He provided a sizeable original endowment, and the State of Texas in 1891 issued a charter calling for establishment of the non-sectarian institute for the advancement of literature, science, art, philosophy and letters, and for cultivating of other means of instruction.

However, to meet Mr. Rice's desire that the institute should be the finest possible, a plan was agreed upon whereby an extensive study would be made of other schools of higher learning and a rather sizeable building program would be completed before any classes actually were held. A young professor from Princeton, Dr. Edgar Odell Lovett, was given the task of visiting all over this nation and in many foreign countries to make a thorough study of the curriculum of leading universities, including Princeton, the school with which he was most acquainted.

at Rice automatically become recipients of a scholarship, for there is no tuition charged. The institute is privately endowed and maintains a vigorous investment program that provides the funds for the financing of the well-rounded scholastic program.

There is no crowding on the campus, a picturesque area of 300 acres just a few miles from bustling downtown Houston, largest city in the South with a population of over 600,000 within the city limits and 800,000 in the metropolitan area.

Although the enrollment has remained approximately the same through the years, there has been a considerable increase in the physical properties of Rice Institute.

Since World War II, a major building program has seen such additions to the campus as the finely appointed Fondren Library with nearly a quarter of a million volumes, the Abercrombie Engineering Laboratory, the M. D. Anderson class room and faculty office building, the modern Wiess Hall dormitory for men students. Last spring a building was constructed for the housing of the $500,000 Van de Graaff machine for research in atomic energy, which has been awarded Rice by the Atomic Energy Commission on a permanent loan for experimental purposes. JESS NEELY

Rice's Coach and Director of Athletics

Jess Neely, a vice-president of the American Football Coaches Association, is one of the most prominent coaching names in the collegiate ranks. The 1953 Owls represent his 14th team at Rice, his 23rd year as head coach of a major college squad and his 31st year as a member of the profession. His impressive record at Rice is 79 victories, 51 defeats and four ties, and his career total as a major college head coach is 122-85-11.

Neely's Rice teams have been consistently in the first division of the rugged Southwest Conference, finishing below .500 in SWC games only twice in his 13 campaigns. His 1946 Owls shared the SWC title with Arkansas, toppling Gen. Bob Neyland's Tennessee Vols in the Orange Bowl that year, 8-0. The 1949 club, said by many to be his best Rice team, won the SWC title without a conference loss, and whipped North Carolina, 27-13, in the Cotton Bowl.

Prior to coming to Rice, Neely served as athletic director and football coach at Clemson College in South Carolina, where he built the Tigers from a weak sister to a consistent Southern Conference power during his nine-year tenure. His greatest Clemson team, sparked by All-American back Banks McFadden, beat Frank Leahy's Boston College outfit, 6-3, in the Cotton Bowl on New Year's Day 1940. Despite a lean period while building his program, the Neely nine-year record at Clemson was 43-35-7.

Before his service at Clemson, Neely served as end coach at the University of Alabama under Wallace Wade when the 'Bama Tide made almost regular visits to the Rose Bowl.

Cornell's Coach

George K. (Lefty) James is in his seventh season as head coach at Cornell.

Though last season Cornell won only twice against seven defeats, his winning percentage is 64.8 (35 of 54). In the four big years from 1948 through 1951 Cornell won 29 of 36 including an 8-1 record and the Ivy championship in both 1948 and 1949.

Lefty's T-offense is based more on speed, timing and blocking than slick, deceptive ball-handling. This fast-breaking attack is the product of theories evolved while he worked primarily on defense during his 11 years with Carl Snavely at North Carolina and Cornell and his two years with Ed McKeever at Cornell.

When the substitution rules were revised in 1948 Lefty was among the first to adopt the platoon system in full.

A native of New Cumberland, Pa., he graduated in 1930 from Bucknell where he played regularly at end for Snavely. He was also an outfielder on the baseball team and captain his senior year.

Lefty started coaching immediately. He handled football, basketball and baseball at Canton and Jersey Shore high schools in Pennsylvania before joining Snavely as freshman coach at North Carolina in 1934. Two years later he came with him to Cornell. In 1945 Snavely returned to Chapel Hill but Lefty chose to stay in Ithaca. In addition to his gridiron work, he had organized and was directing the university's complex physical training program, involving thousands of service personnel, and was head coach of baseball.

Band Day At Cornell

By WILLIAM A. CAMPBELL
Director of Bands, Cornell University

"I lost my music". "My clarinet won't work". "Can I trade pants? Mine won't fit". These are stock questions all band directors hear preceding trips. This week the directors in thirty-six (as of this writing) Central New York high schools answered these and many other questions in preparing to bring some two thousand of their bandmen to participate in Cornell's first BAND DAY and to witness today's game. May the occasion be most enjoyable and inspiring to these young musicians, their directors and their parents and friends.

The response to our invitation to BAND DAY was overwhelming on the part of the schools. Consequently, the program involving the visiting organizations had to be planned accordingly, with special emphasis on timing and getting the bands on and off the field. As to the music, we can only trust to luck that such a large group will be able to play together, especially without a rehearsal. If the venture proves to be successful we shall plan to elaborate on it in future years.

This afternoon the BIG RED BAND will present pre-game and half-time shows, Southwestern in nature, in honor of our opponents from the great state of Texas. The music and the formations have been learned in five hours of rehearsals during the past week. How can this be accomplished in such a short time? Experience, past training, and co-operation on the part of the bandmen is perhaps the best answer. Every band director, high school or college, faces the same problems and somehow the show always goes on. The BIG RED BAND will present seven shows in nine weeks this fall, including trips to Princeton and Pennsylvania.

In addition to playing, the members of our band take an active part in the administrative functioning of the organization. A formations committee assists the directors in planning the shows. Student directors and drum majors have complete charge of the organization at rallies and other student activities. The managers plan the trips, and look after the equipment. The librarians see that every man has the proper part to play. And band alumni are serving as guides on the field today. What do the directors do? Their job is to see that all this is done, to rehearse the band and to keep everyone happy and on the ball.

All regular students in the University are eligible for membership in the BIG RED BAND, provided they can play their instruments well enough to pass the entrance requirements. Oddly enough, we have, on occasion, acquired superior musicians who couldn't keep step. Some thirty freshmen gain membership to the band each fall to fill vacancies caused by graduation, while other freshmen serve as substitutes or play in the Concert and Little Red Bands.

Rice Assistant Coaches

A. M. BALE

A star guard on Rice's first championship team in 1934, end coach 'Red' Bale starts his seventh season as a coaching aide at his alma mater this year. His coaching background also includes service at Baytown, Texas high school, and as a coach of the powerful Randolph Field team during part of his Air Force service in World War II. Recent products of Bale's end coaching at Rice have been All-Americans Froggi Williams and Bill Howton.

CECIL GRIGG

Backfield coach Cecil Grigg is another veteran member of Neely's staff who marks his 20th year at Rice this year. He is the only holdover of the pre-Neely era, having come to Houston in 1934 with Jimmy Kitts. Grigg's greatest gridiron fame was achieved as quarterback of the powerful professional Canton Bulldogs at the same time that Jim Thorpe was the team's star performer. Gigg also played professional baseball after leaving Austin College.

Cornell Assistant Coaches

ARTHUR B. BOERINGER

Bud is in his twenty-sixth year as a line coach and his eighth at Cornell. He works primarily on the offensive play of the tackles, guards and centers. A native of Minnesota, Bud was one of Rockne's great linemen, an all-American center selection in 1926. Following graduation, he went to Detroit where he served 17 years as chief assistant to Gus Dorais. In 1945 he worked with Eddie Anderson at Iowa. At Detroit Bud coached baseball for three years and hockey for nine. He coached hockey at Cornell until the sport was dropped four years ago.

LOUIS J. CONTI

Lou returns to line coaching after 20 months' recall duty with the Marine Corps. As a jet pilot he flew 102 missions in Korea. From 1949, when he first joined the staff, through 1951, he concentrated chiefly on the defensive guards and tackles. He was an outstanding guard on the 1939-40 teams. From 1941 through 1948 Lou was a dive-bomber and photo reconnaissance pilot and participated in five major Pacific campaigns. In 1944 he helped coach Cherry Point Marines and in 1948 he was line coach of the U. S. Amphibious Base team of the Atlantic Fleet.

ROBERT L. CULLEN

Bob is in his eleventh season at Cornell. A backfield coach, he spent the past five years working with the defensive specialists. He is the only member of the staff, besides Coach James, who has assisted both Carl Snavely and Ed McKeever. At Hobart (Class of '37) Bob starred as a quarterback for E. B. (Speed) Wilson, former assistant athletic director at Cornell. He coached the 150-pound team in 1946, the junior

JOE DAVIS

Line coach Joe Davis marks his 22nd consecutive year of football association with Jess Neely this year in a successful gridiron combination that has been in effect since 1931 when Neely took over the reins at Clemson College. Even before that, Davis, who hails from Neely's home town, played under his present chief at Southwestern University in the late twenties. Davis served as basketball coach of the Owls for several years, winning three and sharing one SWC title, but he gave up the court game in 1949 to concentrate on football.

CHARLES MOORE

The second of three Rice alumni now serving their alma mater in a coaching capacity, Charlie Moore was captain of the 1937 team, Conference champions and the first Owl team to play in the Cotton Bowl. His primary duties come under his role of head coach of the freshman eleven, and he also serves as the yearling basketball mentor in the wintertime. A Combat Navy officer in World War II, Moore coached in high school circles at Robstown, Waco, and Corpus Christi, Texas before joining the Rice staff in 1948.

varsity the next year and formerly assisted in basketball and baseball.

PATRICK J. FILLEY

Since 1948 Pat has been in charge of the freshmen. He came to Cornell in 1945 after serving in the Marine Corps. An all-American guard in 1943, Pat also holds the distinction of being the only two-time captain in Notre Dame grid history—in 1943 and 1944. In his first three seasons at Cornell he helped coach the linemen. While in high school at South Bend he was an Indiana state wrestling champion and has aided in coaching the Big Red freshmen.

HAROLD F. McCULLOUGH

This marks Hal's eighth season at Cornell. For the past five years he coached the offensive backfield. In 1947 he directed the freshmen who figured so brilliantly in the successes of the next three years. Hal was the triple-threat standout on Carl Snavely's great teams of 1938-39-40. In 1942 he played halfback with the Brooklyn Football Dodgers. In World War II he was an infantry mortar platoon leader. He helped coach the Seventh Army All-Stars in Germany in 1945.

JOHN J. O'NEILL

John is in his fifth season at Cornell. As end coach, he replaces Walter Bruska, who resigned to accept an administrative position with the university. Last year, while Lou Conti was in Korea with the Marine Corps, John took over as defensive line coach. In 1949 he coached the junior varsity. As an undergraduate, he was outstanding in both football and baseball and was line coach at Ithaca in 1946 and 1947. He also coaches freshman baseball. In World War II he was an infantry captain in the Marine Corps and fought on Saipan and Iwo Jima.

TRI-CAPT. RICHARD CHAPMAN

Dick is a senior tackle from Waxahochie, Tex. A two-year defensive regular, he made All-Southwest Conference last fall and is considered a top All-American candidate this year. He was Rice's junior class president last year, and is sitting on the Student Council this fall. He is majoring in Physics.

LaVON COX

LaVon is a junior tackle from Galena Park, Tex. The heaviest man on the squad at 235, he saw brief service as a varsity squadman last fall. He and his twin brother LaDon were regulars on the baseball team last spring, where LaVon played mostly at first base.

BILL GASKAMP

Bill is a junior halfback from Brenham, Tex. After a spectacular high school career, he started with the 1950 freshman team, but he was out of school for a year and ineligible last fall. He'll probably play safety on defense.

LEW HARPOLD

Lew is a sophomore guard from Houston, Tex. One of two transfer students on the squad from Del Mar Junior College in Corpus Christi, where he played in 1951, he was ineligible last fall. He earned All-State laurels at Lamar High in Houston.

DAN HART

Dan is a senior end from Houston, Tex. A two-year letterman, he was shifted from guard to defensive end in mid-season last fall. He is majoring in Physical Education where he is rated as the top student in that department.

KOSSE JOHNSON

Kosse is a senior fullback from Baytown, Tex. The workhorse of the backfield, he is playing his third year at first-string fullback for the Owls. Last year he was the leading ball carrier of the team and ranked fourth in the SWC with 592 net yards on 108 carries for a 5.5 average. Used sometimes as a halfback last fall, he also handles the punting where he shows a two-year average of 35.2 yards on 162 kicks.

JOHN NISBET

John is a sophomore quarterback from Houston, Tex. He was first-string quarterback with the freshman team last fall, and looked impressive in spring workouts. He earned his letter in baseball last spring as a utility infielder.

EDDIE RAYBURN

Eddie is a sophomore guard from Houston, Tex. Another giant lineman, at 230, up from last year's freshman team, he also started with the freshman basketball team.

MORRIS STONE

Morris is a junior halfback from Kerrville, Tex. Last fall he was the team's second leading ground gainer behind Kosse Jackson with 383 yards on 107 carries for a 3.6 average. He also filled in at fullback and played some defense.

W. C. TREADWAY

W. C. is a senior guard from Houston, Tex. A two-year defensive regular, he may not start this year under the one-platoon rule, but he's sure to bolster the overall line depth.

TRI-CAPT. JOHN HUDSON

John is a senior guard from Center, Tex. A converted tackle where he was a starter for two years on defense, he has also seen spot duty as an offensive guard. The 212-pound Owl captain had 324 minutes playing time last fall, second on the team in total game service.

MARSHALL CRAWFORD

Marshall is a sophomore end from Lamesa, Tex. A tricky pass receiver, he was virtually a sixty-minute man with the freshman team last fall.

BOB GARBRECHT

Bob is a senior fullback from New York City. The lone non-Texan on the squad, he was hampered frequently by injuries last year, but still managed to place third in team rushing with 234 yards net on 68 carries for a 3.4 average.

LAYTON GOLEMON

Layton is a junior tackle from Kerrville, Tex. He earned his letter last year as a regular on offense, and he was a sixty-minute man during his high school career.

DICKY MOEGLE

Dicky is a junior halfback from Taylor, Tex. A reserve last fall, he saw occasional game duty, snaring three passes for 93 yards, to give him the team's top receiving average.

KENNETH PAUL

Ken is a junior guard from Houston, Tex. He played both offense and defense last fall, and his 274 minutes game time was high for Owl sophomores.

JAY RIVIERE

Jay is a sophomore guard from Houston, Tex. Like Lew Harpold, he transferred from Del Mar Junior College in Corpus Christi, where he played in 1951. He was ineligible last fall. He also earned All-State laurels at Lamar High in Houston.

MAX SCHUEBEL

Max is a senior tackle from Houston, Tex. Another two-year regular on defense, he lacks offensive experience, but he will nevertheless see plenty of action this fall.

SAMMY WARD

Sammy is a senior end from Laredo, Tex. An All-State end in high school, he lettered last fall with 145 minutes playing time.

R. E. WORTHAM

R. E. is a junior end from Klein, Tex. Sidelined with a pre-season leg injury last fall, he saw only occasional duty when he finally returned to action.

TRI-CAPT. LEO RUCKA

Leo is a senior center from Crosby, Tex. Most of his varsity duty, where he has earned two letters, has been as a linebacker, but he's also seen duty as offensive center, guard and end.

BLOIS BRIDGES

Blois is a senior end from Grand Prairie, Tex. A regular on offense last year, although hampered by injuries, he handled 14 pass catches for 210 yards and a 15-yard average per catch.

LeROY FENSTEMAKER

LeRoy is a senior quarterback from Llano, Tex. He took over the quarterbacking duties in mid-season last fall and piloted the Owls to the later victories that netted second place in the Southwest Conference. He also kicks the extra points; he scored 17 out of 22 last year and booted a field goal. He's an outfielder on the baseball squad.

CARL JOHNSON

Carl is a senior halfback from Houston, Tex. He earned his letter as a defensive halfback last year when he utilized the speed that also serves him well as a sprinter on the track team. He has been elected by his teammates to be the student representative on the R Association of ex-lettermen during the current school year.

LaMAR LEE

LeMar is a senior guard from Huntsville, Tex. A transplanted Texan from Minnesota, although he played his high school ball in Indiana, he is another returning '52 letterman who bolsters this year's one-platoon line.

LARRY LUNSTEDT

Larry is a junior center from Austin, Tex. He saw brief service as a varsity guard last fall. He was switched to center during spring drills.

HORTON NESRSTA

Horton is a senior halfback from San Antonio, Tex. The lightest man on the squad at 147, he was the nation's leading punt returner last year with 536 yards on 44 carries for a 12.2 average.

ATCHLEY PROCTOR

Atchley is a junior quarterback from DeKalb, Tex. Although he had only five minutes playing time last fall, he nevertheless managed to throw the touchdown pass that provided the margin of victory over T.C.U.

MAC TAYLOR

Mac is a sophomore halfback from Lubbock, Tex. Leading ground gainer and All-State with the Lubbock High state champs of 1950, he plays halfback and fullback on offense, halfback or linebacker on defense. He was ineligible last fall.

DON WILSON

Don is a sophomore center from Houston, Tex. An All-State tackle at San Jacinto High in Houston, he was switched to center with the freshman team last year, but is capable of playing any line position. He's a shot putter in track and field where he took second in the state meet two years ago.

CAPT. WILLIAM GEORGE

Bill is a senior tackle from Bowling Green, O. He was a regular on defense the last two seasons. His first starting assignment was in the Michigan game of 1951. He is in the School of Mechanical Engineering and in the Navy ROTC program.

HERBERT BOOL

Herb is a senior quarterback from Phoenix, Ariz. Last fall he split the quarterback duties with Jack Jaeckel. His biggest day was against Columbia when he completed 11 of 23 passes for 96 yards and two touchdowns and scored the third himself. He was a regular in lacrosse the last two years. He is the son of Herbert W., who graduated from Cornell in 1920. He is in the School of Hotel Administration and in the advanced Air ROTC program.

JOHN GERDES

John is a senior tackle from Cornwall, Pa. He was a defensive regular last fall. An injury in the second game limited his playing as a sophomore. He was on the wrestling team two years ago. He is majoring in Economics in the College of Arts and Sciences and has completed his advanced training in the Quartermaster branch of ROTC.

STANLEY INTIHAR

Stan is a sophomore end from Euclid, O. A wrist injury kept him out of action last fall. He is in the School of Mechanical Engineering.

THEODORE MARCINIAK

Ted is a junior guard from Watkins Glen, N. Y. Last year, after mid-season, he was a regular on defense. He is a pitcher on the baseball team. He is majoring in Government in the College of Arts and Sciences and plans to go to law school.

RICHARD MATHEWSON

Dick is a junior end from Plainfield, N. J. A pre-season injury kept him sidelined all last fall. He was a regular on the freshman team. He is in the College of Agriculture and in the advanced Artillery branch of ROTC.

RICHARD MEADE

Dick is a sophomore halfback from South River, N. J. On the freshman team he was the leading ground-gainer and top scorer and did the punting. He was a basketball regular and was the shortstop and leading batter in baseball. He is in the College of Arts and Sciences.

EDWARD WILSON

Ed is a sophomore halfback from Tarrytown, N. Y. He was a reserve on the freshman team. On the baseball team he played second base. He is majoring in Chemistry in the College of Arts and Sciences.

RUSSEL ZECHMAN

Russ is a senior halfback from Skaneateles, N. Y. He had a leave from the university last fall. In 1951 he played on defense. He is an Economics major in the College of Arts and Sciences and is in the advanced Quartermaster branch of ROTC.

but we had to explain to the Princeton manager that in the rural towns of Enfield, Mecklenberg and Hector which lie between Ithaca and Watkins Glen the only police officers are the Town Constables and if these were to organize an escort it would have to be on high bicycles. When he dropped in for a visit in the following summer to check the details of his arrangements we drove him over to Watkins Glen. In that five mile stretch west of Mecklenberg we saw six deer and put up quite a number of grouse. The request for a motorcycle escort was then withdrawn and we could concentrate on the thirty-two other items which in those days were regarded as pretty important.

Tally-hoes, resort hotels, practice at swank country clubs, the visits of old players—all of those things were once regarded as essential and a team would have thought themselves humiliated if required to travel forty miles in a day coach. And we recall how shocked all the Old Timers on both sides were the first time the visiting Dartmouth team arrived at the old East Ithaca station on Saturday morning, stayed in their sleepers on the siding until after lunch, then played the game, won it handily, and were winging their way back to Hanover before the sun went down. No band, no fuss, no pageantry! Just a highly efficient football team which wasn't nearly enough for the Old Timers of that day. Most of them would settle for it now.

THIRTY ODD YEARS AGO when the success or failure of a football season turned on the outcome of two or three November games and the rest of them were arranged for development purposes, "team psychology" was regarded as important and all the complicated trips were arranged with that in mind. Team psychology was doubtless important, and still is, but the way things have been going, with everybody not unlikely to meet the toughest competition of the year in their opening game, there just isn't time for psychology anymore. Get there, play it, and get home is the way things are now done and that prescription is probably more likely to produce "psychology" than the old way of having a traveling circus sitting around a hotel lobby for two days biting their fingernails.

When this piece went to the printer your aged commentator had not been informed as to how Rice was planning to make this trip, or what type of transportation would be employed when the Cornell squad returns the visit next fall. But both foundations being primarily educational institutions with football teams as incidental attachments, we assume that loss of classroom time loomed, or will loom, as large in the minds of the two managements as it did in that of President White when he turned down that jaunt to Cleveland nearly seventy years ago. "Psychology" didn't enter the picture to any great extent. The main thing is now to leave them on the Campus as long as possible and get them back in time for their Monday eight o'clock. That would seem to indicate air transport and while that sounds expensive in the mass to frugal homebod'es, it ceases to be overwhelmingly so when you deduct from the price of the charter what it costs to feed forty-five football appetites choice cuts for a couple of extra days.

And those tally-ho rides up Fifth Avenue weren't exactly cheap and neither were those pre-game parties at Atlantic City.

The Alumni Circuit

By R. SELDEN BREWER
General Alumni Secretary

An intersectional gridiron contest has a remarkable effect on "the alumni circuit". When word first circulated that Rice would be on our 1953 football schedule, our Southwest alumni seemed to take a new lease on interest in alma mater. Each letter from Houston, Dallas and other Texas strongholds was sure to make some passing remark about the future meetings between these teams, regardless of whether one wrote for information on Cornell's new experiments in radio astronomy or on the chances of one's fifth cousin twice removed gaining admission to the Hotel School.

Wishful thinking seemed to be involved in a number of messages regarding Texans' plans to invade Ithaca on the occasion of the opening series between Rice and Cornell; but, now that the day has arrived, we find such wishful thinking in the category of fait accompli. Harry Bovay, Leo Dicianne, Bob Koch and Hoxie Thompson from our Cornell Club of Houston and Fred Carlson from Dallas are welcome visitors—we trust the long trip will be a rewarding one!

This weekend the Cornell University Council is holding its third annual meeting on the campus. The Council, made up of over 300 Cornell alumni, faculty, administration, and friends has been meeting for two days to discuss the problems faced by Cornell and to endeavor to find ways of helping the University solve them. This network of informed sentinels has already proved itself of substantial aid in evaluating the University's external relationship and affords an important means of dealing with problems affecting its welfare. Cornell is proud to welcome these delegates who are among the many that voluntarily give unstintingly of their time that this University may continue in the forefront of the institutions of higher learning in this country.

The City of Baltimore will be host to Cornellians in more ways than one next week when the middies of Annapolis line up against our Big Red at Municipal Stadium. On the previous afternoon, members of the Board of Directors of the Cornell Alumni Association will gather for their annual fall business meeting.

For those who have given little or no thought to the organizational set-up of the Alumni Association, it might be of interest to point out the various ways that each alumnus is represented on the Board of Directors. The presidents of both the Federations of Men's and Women's Clubs, the individual college associations, the Alumni Fund, and the Association of Class Secretaries are members, as well as chairmen of the University Council, the Publications Committee (the group charged with the responsibility of the Cornell Alumni News) and the Secondary Schools Committee. Geographical areas are likewise represented by six directors elected by the executive committee of the Federation of Cornell Men's Clubs. Each alumnus has a minimum of two representatives, generally more, and through the Board of Directors of his Alumni Association he is provided a direct line of communication to the President and to the faculty of the University on matters which may be of concern to him.

THE RICE INSTITUTE

research program is under the direction of Dr. T. W. Bonner of the faculty, who is recognized as one of the world's foremost atomic physicists.

The physics program at Rice, in fact, is one of the finest anywhere, which is not surprising since the school president is another famed physicist, Dr. William V. Houston. He came to Rice in 1946 to succeed Dr. Lovett, who became President Emeritus after 34 years as head of the school. Dr. Houston, who received his undergraduate training at Ohio State, was on the faculty of the California Institute of Technology for twenty years prior to coming to Rice.

Rice's athletic program has been on a high plane through the years, growing in stature along with the academic prestige.

The beginning was on a small plane, of course, but the growth since the first teams represented the school in 1912 has been quite fabulous.

Although still one of the nation's smallest schools enrollment-wise to field a team in college football, Rice plays its home games in a beautiful and modern stadium on the campus that seats 70,000. Rice Stadium and the Rice Gymnasium both constructed in 1950, give the school as fine a physical plant for use of the student body as any institution in the nation.

There has been success on the field, too. A charter member of the strong Southwest Conference, Rice has won three championships and shared another in football in that powerful league. The Owls have had several All-Americans in the grid sport and several national champions in others. While most of the school's athletes are Texans, it was a New Yorker—Frank Guernsey—who became the second Rice man to win the national intercollegiate singles title.

Rice Institute is proud of its outstanding record academically and athletically, and welcomes this opportunity through today's game to become acquainted with the students, alumni, and friends of another splendid institution—Cornell University.

RICE'S HONOR

All for Rice's honor, we will fight on.
We will be fighting when this day is done;
And when the dawn comes breaking,
We'll be fighting on, Rice,
For the Gray and Blue. We will be loyal
To Rice be true.

FIGHT SONG

Fight for Rice; Rice, fight on; Loyal sons, arise!
The Blue and Gray, of Rice today
Comes breaking through the skies.
Stand and cheer! Victory's near!
Sammy leads the way.
Onward go, to crush the foe.
We'll fight for Blue and Gray.
Rice . . . Fight . . . never dies.
Blue . . . Gray . . . in the skies.
Stand . . . Cheer . . . Rah, Rah, Rah.
Go . . . Go . . . Yeaaaaaa Rice!

Rice, Owls, Fight!

YEA BLUE, YEA GRAY

Yea B-L-U-E-
Yea G-R-A-Y-
Yea R-I-C-E
Hey, Hey, Hey!

GRAY BONNET

Put on your old gray bonnet, with the blue ribbon on it,
And we'll hitch Old Sammy to the fray,
And we'll rock, rock, rock 'em
And we'll sock, sock, sock 'em,
To the end of Judgment Day.

ALMA MATER

Far above Cayuga's waters,
With its waves of blue,
Stands our noble Alma Mater.
Glorious to view.

Chorus

Lift the chorus, speed it onward,
Loud their praises tell:
Hail to thee, our Alma Mater,
Hail, all hail, Cornell.

Far above the busy humming
Of the bustling town,
Reared against the arch of Heaven,
Looks she proudly down.

CORNELL VICTORIOUS

From blue Cayuga,
From hill and dell,
Far rings the story of the glory of Cornell.
From east and west the crashing echoes ans'ring call,
"Cornell Victorious; the champions of all."
Cheer! Cheer! Here we are again,
To cheer with all our might!
Cheer! Cheer! Here we are again,
To cheer for the Red and White—Fight! Fight! Fight!
Cornellian colors we'll defend;
Cornell victorious to the end
We'll hear the echo of our cheer.
Oh, here we are! Here we are again!
Repeat the first five lines.

We'll all have drinks at Theodore Zinck's
When I get back next fall.

CARNELIAN AND WHITE

Cornell colors are waving today;
Cornell colors point out the way;
Steady and true, 'gainst the red and the blue,
Cornell must win her way, Yea! Yea! Yea!
Never yielding, she'll fight to the end,
With courage never failing;
So we'll shout with our might for Carnelian and White;
Cornell, I yell, yell, yell, Cornell.

William B. Wise
was a lovelorn lad

And today was the day
he'd ask her Dad,

But his heart was light, his knees were steady,
Our William had his case all ready.

"It's Ballantine," said bright young Will;
"Flavor, you know, that chill can't kill!"

And Dad approved, as you'd surmise,
Praised that flavor to the skies!

Deep-brewed for flavor that chill can't kill

How cold do you like your beer? Good and cold, if you're like most people. Beer is usually served at temperatures ranging from 35° to 42° Fahrenheit. Ballantine Beer is deep-brewed to hold its flavor at whatever temperature you like best!
